Topic:

Arbitration - An efficient way to solve BRI related international commercial disputes

Dr. Xu was appointed in June 2005 as a member of Chinese government delegation to attend the 20th diplomatic conference of the Hague Conference on Private International Law to negotiate the Convention on the Choice of Court, he also attended the 1st, the 2nd, the 3rd and the 4th Meeting of the Intergovernmental Negotiating Special Commission on the Convention on Recognition and Enforcement of Foreign Judgments of the Hague Conference on Private International Law in February of 2016, February of 2017, December of 2017 and May of 2018. He was also a member of Chinese delegation to the 22nd diplomatic conference in The Hague on which the 2019 HCCH Judgments Convention was adopted.

Dr. Xu is fluent in Chinese, German and English. He has contributed many practice-oriented and academic articles on international commercial arbitration and comparative law in world-renowned professional journals, such as the Journal of International Arbitration, the International and Comparative Law Quarterly, the Lloyd's Maritime and Commercial Law Quarterly, and others. Dr. Xu has also published monographs in the areas such as international commercial arbitration, civil law, private international law and insurance law. His representative publications are Anwendungsprobleme des chinesischen internationalen Kaufrechts

(doctoral thesis), published by Peter Lang Verlag in Frankfurt, Germany in 1994; Internationales Privat- und Zivilverfahrensrecht der Volksrepublik China, co-authored with Professor Harro von Senger and published by Schulthess Polygraphischer Verlag in Zurich, Switzerland in 1994; Guide for China Ad Hoc Arbitration Practice (the first domestic monograph on this subject), co-authored with Dr. Gao Fei and published by Law Press in Beijing, China in 2017.

Dr. Xu has extensive experience as a practicing attorney. In 1989 he worked as an assistant lawyer in Dusseldorf, Germany, and from 1991 until 1994 was employed at a firm in Hamburg. At the beginning of 1995 he returned to China to establish a representative office for a German law firm, where he subsequently worked until the end of 1997. During this period, he provided legal services for many foreign enterprises, especially enterprises from Germany and other German-speaking countries, for their investments in and trade with China. From January to December 1998 he practiced at a Chinese law firm in Shanghai, China. At the end of 1998, he initiated the establishment of the law firm Boss & Young, which merged with the law firm Joinway in January 2014. Dr. Xu is the managing partner of the newly merged law firm Boss & Young.

Dr. Xu's main fields of practice include foreign direct investment in China, international merger and acquisitions, technology transfer, intellectual property rights and international commercial arbitration. His clients include multinational companies, China state owned enterprises, banks and insurance companies.

Dr. Xu is one of the leading arbitration practitioners in China, having represented clients from China, USA, UK, Germany, Switzerland and other countries, and handled numerous international commercial arbitration cases related to the application of the ICCA, UNCITRAL, SIAC and CIETAC arbitration rules. In addition, he has been appointed as an arbitrator of the China International Economic and Trade Arbitration Commission (CIETAC), the Shanghai International Arbitration Center (SHIAC), the Shanghai Arbitration Commission, the Nantong Arbitration Commission and the Korean Commercial Arbitration Board (KCAB). As an arbitrator, Dr. Xu has rendered more than 200 arbitration awards on disputes covering international trade, construction, real estate transaction, technology transfer, banking, insurance and financial transactions and foreign investment, some of which are conducted in English. Dr. Xu has also acted as chief arbitrator in a number of these arbitration disputes.

SUPPORTING ORGANIZATION

Shanghai University of Political Science and Law (SHUPL) was the law school of Shanghai University from the 1980s to early 2000s. The Municipal Government of Shanghai decided to set up SHUPL based on the School of Law of Shanghai University in 2004 in order to facilitate the large demand for legal professionals and the urgent needs for advanced studies of social sciences. Consequently, the number of the students increased dramatically from 1,000 at Law School of Shanghai University to 12,000 in SHUPL.

SHUPL ranks A level among Chinese universities in the field of law, teaching a wide range of subjects in social sciences, including but not limited to law, political science, economics and management, sociology, literature, etc.

In early July 2015, the Supreme People's Court (SPC) set up four institutes for judicial studies on the Belt and Road Initiative in collaboration with four academic institutions, i.e. Tsinghua University, China University of Political Science and Law, China Academy of Social Sciences and SHUPL. The SPC-SHUPL institute's main task is to assist the SPC to do researches on the major legal problems in practice and provide the SPC with the proposed text of judicial interpretations to be issued by the SPC and applied nationwide.

SHUPL is committed to international exchanges, partnering with universities and institutions, such as the Washington University in St. Louis, Temple University, University of San Francisco, University of New Haven, Niagara University, University of Montreal, University of Sydney, Queensland University of Technology, University of Leeds, University of Hertfordshire, University of Macerata, University of Brescia, University of Graz, University of Szeged, Stockholm University and the Hague Conference on Private International Law. From September 2010 onwards, over 800 students have participated in overseas study and internship programmes of SHUPL.
